Mr. Cartis desired to ask the committee on teachers if a second examination for teachers had not sometimes been hold by direction of the board, so that the coming examination would not necessarily be final.

Mr. Lovejoy said that second examinations in individual cases had been sometimes held.

Mr. Johnson Children C

mr. Lovejoy gave a history of the matter of the two reports, and urged that action should be taken now.

The president read the resolution adopted at the last meeting, and suggested that some one who voted in the affirmative at its last neeting should move to reconsider. Mr. Lovejoy made such motion, which was seconded.

Gen. Birney did not think that this was a proper day to call the meeting, as it was gen-erally a heliday, and suggested that an ad-journment be had until next week, especially as a full board was not present.

Mr. Johnson said that Mr. Birney had a right to his individual opinion, but that the law said that a majority of the board constituted the board. There were seven present s a full board was not present.

At the request of Mr. Lovejoy the secretary read the two reports presented at the last meeting, and the communication from the principals of the high and normal schools. Mr. E. A. Paul, principal of the high school,

The taking from the second year class at this time of some ten or twelve of its best pupils would necessarily make the average scholarship of the class dering the remainder of its course much lower, and would, therefore, not be in the interist of the school; but if the number taken should be from the oldest and most mature pupils, who, as is generally the case are not the brigatest scholars, her the school nor the class would suffer any Mrs. Lucilla E. Smith, the principal of the

Mrs. Lucilla E. Smith, the principal of the normal school, wrote as follows:

From conversation with mothers and friends of our public school children I know there are many girls in Washington who look anxiously forward to the time when they shall be able to provide for their own needs and do something to lighten the birden which others carry. They work hard in an the grades that they may be successful candisates of the normal school. It seems to me that those who have the school, in charge would do great injustice were they to establish the precedent of admitting outside parties unless it can be shown that there are candidates much better disciplined by sindy than our own high school girls are. We ought in no way to undervalue scholarly attaluments. Yet it should be remembered that scholarship alone is not the measure of teaching ability. It there are in the high school girls who possess natural qualifications, with an amount of culture equal to that of the present normal class, I can see no good reason for rejecting them. The defiect in the normal school at present is not so much the lack of preparation for professional studies as it is the lack or proper facilities for a right quantity and quality of practical teaching.

Mr. Lovejoy said that second examinations in individual cases had been sometimes held, but not in classes.

Mr. Johnson asked if the reports from the principals of the normal and high schools had been received.

Gen. Birney staided that the board was not full, and be thought that a postponement should be made. He said that in the absence of Messrs. Wormley and Warner, if these who had determined to push this matter through should accomplish it, he would not consider this action final.

Considerable argument was had between Mr. Birney and Mr. Johnson, the latter asserting that if the subject should be considered at this time the rules would be fully compiled with, and the former that such action would be a violation of the rules.

Mr. Cortis advocated postponement, and believed that it would be irregular to act upon the matter before the time when it was set for action.

PRESENTATION DAY.

Interesting Exercises at the National Deaf

Mute College at Kendall Green. Kondali Green Deaf Mute college chapel was comfortably filled yesterday afternoon by a select audience of ladies and gentlemen to witness the exercises given by the officers, friends, and students of the above named institution. The unveiling of a bust of the late President Garfield was one of the features of the exercises.

Dr. Gallaudet gave a history of the bust,

The dobate upon the two reports was continued at great length and the arguments used in the discussion at the last regular meeting were reproduced. The defendants of the majority report were Messrs. claimed that they were morally bound to look after the scholars of the high school; that the law also required that pupils to the normal school should be from the advanced scholars of the public school were now farther advanced than the highest grade known at the time of the establishment of the normal school.

Mesers Curtis and Birney contended that the first class alone of the high school were advanced pupils, and that the second class were not advanced in the sense contemplated by the law, and that there was no especial necessity for twenty five-pupils to go to the normal school anyway, but that the seventeen which were in the highest class in the high school, would be sufficient this year.

In the course of the discussion it was brought out that the standard of examination for admission into the normal school was higher than the examination for teacherships, and that if those applicants who come for the following was the order of exercises:

for admission into the normal school vas higher than the examination for teacherships, and that if those applicants who come forward and successfully pass the examination for teachersh positions were subjected to the rigid requirements for admission to the normal school they would fail.

The majority report, which allows the twenty class pupils in the high school to enter for examination for the normal school was finally geopted by the following vote. Ayopiles Lavedoy, library, hunn, Brooks, and house a flavedoy, library, hunn, Brooks, and house of the chair sustained has pelest.
